

PISTOL

L'Épée 1839, with its new and latest partner, The Unnamed Society, whose motto is « Create the impossible that cannot be imagined », is facing a new creative, aesthetic and philosophical challenge by exploring an emerging clock concept.

In an unpredictable interpretation, a gun, the Colt Bisley, and representing passage and sublimates the irony of time,

This timeless and unique masterpiece combining elegance and practicality but Icon of the Mexican revolution, Pancho his rotating cannon Colt Bisley; as a mechanism with an aura of danger. As power of revolution, and every 'Pistol' is revealing in the form of itself as a piece of art that captures the as much in its form as in its function.

has not only succeeded in flawlessly also owns a rich story behind:

Villa has been captured many times with revolver, it stands for an intricate Pancho Villa's revolver, it stands for the revolution is founded on values.

The combination of a pistol and time rightly symbolizes the preciousness of every moment and the speed at which it can be stolen. In this glorious creation, 'Pistol' wonderfully beautifies the time through a seductive design and by means of a fascinating technical development.

Holding a power reserve of 8 days and fitted with a singular butt, 'Pistol' is set with a canon that will be used as the rewinding point for the movement – as the owner cleans their gun each week – a functional hammer and trigger – mixing form and function has always been part of L'Épée DNA – a barrel for the hours and minutes who can be set directly, such as a sniper checking the free rotation of the barrel...
